Significance of the Resident Handbook

The Residents Handbook sets out protocols and guidelines for the smooth operation at Three Robins Riverside and its support services. The protocols described in the Residents Handbook represent “Rules” for the operation of the property

This Resident Handbook will be updated from time-to-time, based on your feedback and suggestions as well as input from your residents’ council. Revisions to this document will be done as a team, including the property owners, staff, residents committee and residents. We look forward to your help in making sure that each person participates as much as they choose in forming the atmosphere and culture of caring within your community.

Construction Update

As we age, we often find it hard to find new friends. Friendship adds richness and value to our lives. We believe living at Three Robins community means you participate in a community that supports friendship and fun.

Three Robins Communities are designed and developed to support residents on quest for continual learning, exploring, loving and appreciation of all opportunities that each new day can bring. It is our hope that your participation as a resident brings spirit of caring and mutual support to each other. Growing our culture is the single most important contributor to making Three Robins a unique, desirable, and amazing place to live. The residents of Three Robins Riverside will come to understand the significance of a socially integrated community. Respect, wisdom, individuality and inclusiveness honors each person as a contributing member of our community.

Traditional Apartment vs Three Robins

A traditional apartment is less expensive as most market apartments have limited social programming and amenities. We have staff at Three Robins who are trained in fun and supporting clubs and volunteer experiences that enhance all residents well being.

Loneliness creeps into our lives, as we lose capacity. When it gets hard to drive to events, too cold to go outdoors and starting to have challenges with hearing and vision make cocooning attractive.....but we know that community interaction, with purpose supports aging in place.

Research has linked social isolation and loneliness to higher risks for a variety of physical and mental conditions: high blood pressure, heart disease, obesity, a weakened immune system, anxiety, depression, cognitive decline, Alzheimer's disease, and even death.

We are becoming better navigators..... FCSS is the pathway to understanding the services that are available

The Community Health Navigation program is currently part of a research study at the University of Calgary known as ENCOMPASS— ENhancing COMmunity health through Patient navigation, Advocacy, and Social Support.

Community Health Navigators (CHNs) are integrated into the primary care services delivered by Primary Care Networks (PCNs). They are trusted members of the primary care team, supporting health care professionals. CHNs help patients navigate the health system, connecting them to programs, services, and resources found in their community. The CHN program is patient-driven, with CHNs tailoring their services to individual patient needs.
